Immerse yourself in one of the most fascinating artistic techniques of the Italian tradition in a place rich in history and beauty. Inside Villa De Rossi, an elegant nineteenth-century residence in Vico Equense, you will discover the ancient art of fresco, already used in Roman times and made famous by the masterpieces of the Renaissance, enjoying a creative experience overlooking the Gulf of Naples.

Guided step by step by the artist Aerma Polani, you will visit the studio and private residence, enriched with frescoed ceilings and antique majolica. You will learn the techniques used over two thousand years ago in Pompeii and Herculaneum, working with sand, lime and natural pigments until you have created a small, authentic fresco to take home with you.

The experience ends on the villa's panoramic terrace where, while your fresco takes shape, you can relax with an aperitivo and a glass of wine, letting yourself be inspired by the view of the sea and the timeless atmosphere of the Costiera Sorrentina.
